Secret City Plan Review Underway

Chairman of the Neighbourhood Planning and Development Assessment Committee Cr Amanda Cooper has confirmed that a secret review of the City Plan 2000 is underway by Brisbane City Council.

Councillor for Tennyson Ward, Nicole Johnston, said she was calling on the LNP Council Administration to publicly reveal the timetable for the City Plan review.

“Cr Cooper has stated that work has commenced, but refuses to outline the review timetable or when the plans will be released for community consultation,” Cr Johnston said.

“Why are the LNP keeping their plans for a major rewrite of our City’s planning and development rules a secret?”

Councillor Johnston said she was concerned that the Lord Mayor and Premier have already agreed to new planning rules that bypassed City Plan requirements for areas such as Southbank and the RNA Showgrounds and ignored height restrictions already agreed to in West End.

“I am calling on the Lord Mayor and Cr Cooper to publicly announce their timetable and consultation process for the City Plan review as a matter of urgency.”

“It has been more than 12 years since a major review of the City’s development and zoning rules were undertaken and residents deserve to know what is going on.”
